DISCUSSION QUESTIONS

- Could it be that God has put your life in your anointing but your head won't allow it? Read Romans 12:1-2. Your thinking defines your reality and even though your anointing is perfect, your mind is broken. You will not become what you're anointed to be, you'll be what you think you are. Being born again means renewing your broken mind and to align it with your spirit. Do your thoughts align with your spirit? Are you allowing your thoughts to overrun your anointing?

- Since our mind is broken we are constantly battling with God therefore making him our enemy. Satan is not God's enemy because he is not a worthy opponent. Satan is our enemy. But we have a powerful weapon in our hands that was made out of the same stuff that your anointing was made out of. Are you using the Bible to it's fullest potential? What scriptures fight against contradictory thoughts?
- God doesn't want to battle with your thoughts because he has already labeled you with words of who you are and who you can be. God has spoken purpose and potential over your life but it is up to you to live it out. When God sees you, he sees you through Jesus. He knows you are not perfect, but through Jesus you are made perfect. Do you see yourself perfected in Christ? How can you begin to live out your purpose and potential?
- There's a difference between position and condition. Everything you can ever be is already in you. By submitting to God, your life is not about getting up to go to work, it's about getting up and going on assignment. However, it is ultimately up to you how you see your position and condition. What do you believe your position in God is? What is the condition of your mind and spirit at this moment?

OUR CHALLENGE

Pastor Ron talked about our thoughts being the enemy of God. What are the thoughts that you are constantly wrestling with? Find at least 2-3 scriptures that contradict your thinking to start renewing your mind to the mind of Christ.
