DISCUSSION QUESTIONS

Read Ecclesiastes 3:1-8. Everything has a time. And everything is beautiful in its time. With time comes seasons in our lives. Unless you know what season you're in, you don't know what to do. Knowing what to do is parallel with knowing what season you are in. If you know your season than you don't have to waste time trying to figure out your purpose. Get started on your purpose early and align yourself with God. How old were you when you got saved? What would you tell your younger self if you had a chance?

Even when we know what season we are in we still want certain doors to open in our time. But some doors only open in God's time and no matter what you do they won't open. These doors you cannot kick down, fast or throw a fit to open them, you just have to wait. Be confident knowing that even through difficult seasons, this too shall pass. And if you don't see the door opening, it will in the right time and season. Trust the spirit in you and that voice that tugs your heart. Because God convicts your heart when you step out of season to make sure you stay in step with him. How do you know when God is convicting your heart? What does that "tug" feel like?

Read Isaiah 46:9-10. There is no one like God so be confident in him. He declares the end from the beginning. He declared your end even before you began and worked it ALL together for your good. God doesn't start something unless he knows it's ending. Be confident that when the storm rages, when life throws you for a loop and when everything seems impossible, God already has a way out for you. What's unexpected to you is not unexpected to God. So if God has already started to take you out of debt or even started helping to change your marriage then it is already done! What has God already started to do in your life? Are you confident enough to stand in peace during the storm? Or do you feel like you need to take control?

CHALLENGE

This week stand in confidence that the Lord has called you to fulfill his purpose. If you feel like you have wasted time throughout your life and it's too late, don't listen to that voice! Start now! Go before God to begin living out the purpose for your life.

PRAYER FOCUS

As you pray this week put your focus on those people that feel like they have no purpose. Pray that the Holy Spirit touches their life and plants a seed to start growing and they can know the Lord's call.
